VARIETY 00:04 G

Composition and balance arise as a consequence of the raw painterly expression and the divergent patinas which emerge from grounded, yet fanciful, mercurial responses of the senses," says Kate Barry, a 2015 finalist in the Clayton Utz Art Awards. Take a look at Brisbane-based Barry's magnificent works of art on board this month, shown in the form of a short film. Naomi White's (winner of the 2015 Member's Choice Award for the Tattersall's Art Prize) artwork will also feature. "I love to capture the momentary quality of light and shade with delicate brushstrokes," says White, whose work focuses on the beauty of nature. "My attention to detail signals a personal experience of nature and surrounds. Rather than focusing on grand narratives, my work has an ability to find beauty within the things we pass every day."
